*“Making a difference
in the lives
of special children”*

The Tennessee School for the Blind

has served Tennessee children who are blind and visually impaired since its establishment in 1844. Because its students have unique needs, the school often needs special equipment, supplies and opportunities for enrichment activities, in addition to what can be provided by the state appropriations that support the school. Assistance can be given by non-government foundations such as Friends of Tennessee School for the Blind, Inc. For more information go to www.tnschoolfortheblind.org

Funds donated to Friends of Tennessee School for the Blind, Inc. are used to enhance the educational, vocational, special skills, and social development of blind children who are enrolled in the Tennessee School for the Blind.
